

Prizes for Members

Posted by BonusBetting - 29 Jul 2011 15:33

BonusBetting is still quite a new site, and there is still a lot of work to be done.

We want to encourage members to use our forum and hopefully start to build more of a community.

At the moment the forum is fairly empty, so to kick things off for the new football season we are going to start offering prizes for contributing.

Prizes will be free bets and cash, and will be given away at least weekly if not daily.

We've seen quite a few tipping competitions out there, but it would be good to do something a bit different!

So - has anyone got any brilliant ideas for forum competitions or prizes?

If you submit an original idea that we use, we'll send you a cash prize of £10.

=====

Re: Prizes for Members

Posted by liamcol123 - 29 Jul 2011 18:14

What about using a 'rep' system, and whoever gets the most in a selected period of time gets the prize?

Or maybe have a thread that has a time limit, and the last person to post will win the prize before the thread shuts off (not a clue if it's possible to shut off a thread like that, could just set a time of day...)

Everyone that does a certain number of posts per day be put in a random draw for the prize?

And lastly on my exhaustive list (I want the prize 😊), you could have a nomination system, where a user might nominate someone else because they were helpful, friendly, funny... You get the jist

That's all I got at the moment, hope I helped develop a 'winning' idea 🙄

=====
Re: Prizes for Members

Posted by Taftmeister100 - 31 Jul 2011 14:02

Here's an idea, Each user submits a mock accumulator, a fictional £10 on one event a day with different bookies for a week. The winner can be split between people who actually win their mock accumulator, biggest profit and that bet that survives the longest into the week.

The forum can be updated daily with the current winners etc

=====